

In critical situations like rapid market change, unjust court sentences, unfair competitors, etc. a company may require turnaround management to save the existence of the company. The action has to be rapid, analogous to intensive therapy medical treatment. We cooperate with two consultants who have several successes in such interventions.

Each time the form of intervention is associated with the specific situation of the company. Sometimes mere coaching for the board members suffices. In other situations major structural changes are necessary and temporal control of the company. In all situation managerial experience and fast response is obligatory.
